New review articles is out from Katarzyna Jobin. The article deals with the question what effect sodium intake has on the immune system. In detail the authors discuss the modulatory effects of a high salt diet on the microbiota, metabolic signaling, hormonal responses, local sodium concentrations, and their effects on immune cell types in different tissues. Congratulations Kasia!